CHRISTIAN UNITY IS SUBJECT OF SERMON

REV. I. R. SPENCER GIVES AN ABLE ADDRESS AT CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

MEANS TO ATTAIN IT

Declares There is a Common Ground Where All Christians May Meet Regardless of Creed.

Rev. I. R. Spencer in an able sermon Sunday at the Christian church spoke on the subject of Christian unity. He said in part:

Christian unity may be placed under the two headings of "its Necessity" and "its Attainment." On grounds which all admit to be right.

As to its necessity: First—It is commanded. Paul to the Romans says: "Mark them who cause divisions and offenses contrary to the doctrine that ye have learned and be assured of and avoid them." Also to the Corinthians he said that when they said, "I am of Paul, I am of Apollus, I am of Cephas, are ye not carnal and walk as men?" Was Paul crucified through you or were ye baptized in the name of Paul?

All religious parties today look back to someone as their founder and frequently assume the founder's name. Is it not more carnal to bear the name of any uninspired man, however great and good than to have borne the name of those divinely inspired apostles?

Main Paul says to the Philippians, "Only let your behavior be as it becomes the Gospel of Christ that whether I come and see you or else be absent I may hear of your affairs that ye stand fast in one spirit with one mind striving together for the faith of the Gospel."

Second: Christ prayed for it. In the seventeenth chapter of John, after praying for himself and his apostles, he then extends the scope of his prayer as follows: "Neither pray I for these alone, but for them also who shall believe on me through their word; that they all may be one as thou Father art in me and I in thee, that they also may be one in us, that the world may believe that thou hast sent me."

Third: Paul declared the seven points of unity. To the Ephesians he said: "There is one body, and one spirit, even as ye also are called one Lord by your calling; one Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of all who is above all, and through all, and in you all."

Fourth: It would conduce to the good will and good fellowship of this or any other community if God's people were all "with one mind striving together for the faith of the Gospel."

comes the second department of the sermon: how can it be attained? Many people think that there is no common ground on which all can unite and to which all agree. And first, as to creed which is from the Latin word credo, I believe. A man's creed or confession of faith is what he believes, but as one of the seven points of unity is one faith, it can be but one scriptural creed or confession of faith, as in Christianity there is but one object of faith, and that object is Christ. Paul said: "I have determined to know nothing but what is written in the Gospel of Jesus Christ, and him crucified. If anyone of the parties in Christendom was asked why do you consider your creed the best, they would probably say, "because I consider it the most scriptural, the nearest like the Bible." Then, if the creed that is nearest like the Bible is the best, it is the best of all. Human creeds are but the expressions of human opinion about the Bible, merely our religious views. But religious views never have a soul and will. The Bible clearly teaches that Jesus is our only Saviour, not our religious views. If any creed contains more than the Bible, it contains too much. If it contains less, it is different from the Bible, it is wrong, and if just the same, it is not a human creed, but a Bible.

Can we all agree? We do now. If I ask any person in Protestant Christendom, "Do you believe that a sincere, penitent believer in Christ is saved?" I have heard of him saying, "I am immersed in the name of the Father, and of the son and of the Holy Spirit?" I never yet found a person, but who would answer in the affirmative, if two bills of the same kind were offered you in payment of a debt, one of which everyone admitted to be genuine, and the genuineness of the other very much doubted, which one would you accept? It is best to take the safe side of every disputed question so if there is a lack of unity as to the action of baptism, who is to blame; those that take the safe ground; those that take the disputed ground.

And now as to the name. "The disciples were called Christians first in Antioch." And Agrippa said unto Paul: "Almost thou persuadest me to be a Christian." Paul also says: "If any man suffer as a Christian, let him not be ashamed, but rather let him glorify God in this behalf." Again Paul says: "For this cause I bow my knee to the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, from whom the whole family in heaven and on earth is named." This name, Christian, indicates our relationship to Christ and is hence the family name. All agree, but all cannot agree on any of the denominational names.

But not the name of an officer or ordinance derived from any other source should not be permitted to supplant the name of Christ, as the head of the family and the husband of the church, for he says of it, "My church," and it is also called the "Bride, the Lamb's wife."

Then, in conclusion, with the holy scriptures as our guide, we should endeavor to reproduce the church of Jesus Christ as, by divine authority, it was originally established in teaching, in practice and in name. Do not let them say that they have the favor of God approved them; have the hopes that they had, based on the same foundation on which their hopes were based, fall asleep in Jesus as they did, and go to the home in heaven to which they have gone, is my prayer for Jesus' sake.

CHIEF CHAMPION GIVES PATROLMEN INSTRUCTIONS FOR CARING OF HORSES

Since the coming of severe weather Chief of Police Champion gave instructions to the patrolmen to see that no horses were left for undue length of time on Janesville streets to suffer, and to care for them in case the owner had been negligent in his duty. Animals, to Chief Champion's consideration, have the same right to protection as humans, and the provisions for law for their proper care will be carefully exercised by the police.

MILWAUKEE BOY IN RED CROSS SERVICE

Son of Gen. Joseph Doe, Formerly of Janesville, Drives Ambulance on Battlefields.

Arthur B. Doe, son of General Joseph Doe, a former well known resident of Janesville, now prominent attorney in Milwaukee, who has been a student at Oxford university, England, is attached to the Red Cross ambulance service under Sir William Oester, according to a letter received by Mr. Doe from his son. The young man, who is twenty-four years of age, is a former University of Wisconsin student where he won a three-year scholarship to Oxford in 1910. Young Doe is at present driving an automobile ambulance on the battlefields of France or Belgium. In his letter he states that the service is strictly neutral.

ANOTHER ADVOCATE OF NOVEL READING

Much Good to be Derived from the Reading of Really Good Fiction.

Somebody has said that every virtuous person is likely to look upon fiction as frivolous and unimportant, because they consider that it is not helpful to the uplift of humanity. But the same writer says that a man's mind is more helpful and uplifting than any kind of serious reading.

In "African Game Trails," Theodore Roosevelt says that he objects to nothing but light reading, provided that both be interesting and wholesome. He mentions a number of novels which he carried with him on his great African expedition and believes that one can profit as much by reading really good and interesting novels and being able to get, as in no other way, an understanding of how real people feel in certain country districts as well as in various great cities.

The Gazette is offering this splendid book by Col. Roosevelt in the plan outlined in the announcement printed from day to day. The volume comprises more than six hundred pages of the most interesting and beautiful library cloth decorated in gold and colors. There are more than two hundred photographs reproduced from the party. Many of the pictures are reproduced in beautiful colors and shown in full page size. No book of a similar character contains so many attractive features.

EMINENT AUTHOR TO SPEAK AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Dr. William Chalmers Covert, Famed for Descriptions of North Woods, Lectures Tuesday.

The Presbyterian Brotherhood have been successful in securing the Rev. Dr. William Chalmers Covert, author of several popular and inspiring books, to deliver an address on Tuesday of this week. Dr. Covert is a most interesting author, and makes his readers eager to go to the north woods where he has used his eyes and ears to such good advantage; and satisfies the hunger of those who long for touch with the wild woods yet are unable to make the journey except by the aid of one who possesses the wonderful power of portrayal.

The following excerpt from his recent book "Wild Woods and Waterways" is an average example of his picturesque descriptive power: "The little stream, with its gentle and artistic accompaniments, is a kind of microscopic masterpiece that while inviting our closest scrutiny, defies it. It presents us an alluring invitation to fellowship, all the while beguiling us with a beauty that is born of mystery and silence. The nerves of a tired man . . . will find more recreating rest in a little, vivacious stream that lures him with red and coral down its noisy and shady length, than in any of the ordinary diversions sought by the many."

Dr. Covert will deliver an address in the First Presbyterian church on Tuesday evening, this week, November 24th, at 8 o'clock. The Presbyterian Brotherhood take pleasure in extending to the general public a cordial invitation to attend. No charge will be made, the seats are free, no collection will be taken. Dr. Covert is the pastor of one of the largest and most active churches in Chicago, and is recognized as one of the strong pulpits men of the United States.

In presenting, without charge, such a capable speaker, the Presbyterian Brotherhood is carrying out its policy adopted at its opening session of October, which is, that three times during the winter months, beginning with a note and influence will be secured to give public addresses from the pulpit of the First Presbyterian church.

UNUTTERABLE WOE BELGIUM'S PORTION

LITTLE COUNTRY PAYING HEAVY TOLL FOR SEEKING TO PRESERVE ITS INTEGRITY.

MUST GET ASSISTANCE

Thousands Need Food and Clothing to Support Them From Actual Freezing and Starvation.

When the gaunt specter of starvation and disease stalks hand in hand through a country in the throes of destruction, it behooves the civilized world to pause in their everyday consideration of affairs to do what they can to alleviate the want and suffering of a starving people whose condition is only brought about by the ravages of war, a war in which they had no part in its inception and of which they are the unfortunate sufferers. This is true of Belgium and the Belgium and the thousands of millions of population, the civilized world not at war, must send immediate aid.

The Outlook has issued a very interesting pamphlet of 92 pages entitled "Europe in the Making," which gives a fair and lucid manner the historical background of this great war. In speaking of the unutterable woe that has come upon Belgium through the invasion of the German army.

"They fought valiantly and they were overcome. They were then stamped underfoot. Probably it is physically impossible for our people, living so comfortably and so securely, to understand the dreadful woe that has come upon the people of Belgium and especially upon the poor people. Let each man think of his neighbors—the carpenter, the station agent, the laborer, the farmer, the teacher—who are around about him, and think of these men deprived of their all, their homes destroyed, their wives and children starved, overcome with fatigue and horror, stumbling their way to some city of refuge, and when they have reached it, finding air ships wrecking the houses with bombs and destroying women and children. The agonizing tale of the suffering of the Belgian people and their children suffered as other mothers and children suffered."

Here is the Outlook's view of the situation. Whether you approve of it or not, it is a fact that the heart must be touched by the dire want and necessity that confronts these people and you should subscribe liberally to the fund being raised to alleviate their suffering as far as you are able.

On The Spur of The Moment

(As Longfellow would have written Should you ask me whence these stories,

Whence these legends and traditions, With this odor of the poppy And aroma of the dope pipe, With the curdling tales of carnage, With the stories of the sea fights, With their frequent repetitions, And their wild reverberations, As of thunder of the mountains, I repeat this as I heard it: From the lips of Harding Davis, Mighty Yankee with a record For much wartime specializing; From the lips of John McCutcheon, Irish Cobb and Frederick Palmer, Mary Boyle O'Reilly also, And of Shepherd and Bill Irwin; And of Jim O'Donnell Bennett. As their tales unfold, we're staggered.

By the carnage European, But impressed are we more strongly By the bunk of local fakers, Fakers French and fakers English, Fakers Russian, fakers German, Fakers Austrian and Belgian, Fakers Serbian and Italian. Who have fed us to the limit On false rumors pyrotechnic, Who have sunk ships single handed, Ships that never had existed, Who have captured entire nations By one hour on their typewriters. They have killed off kings and princes.

Every morning before breakfast— They have barked, as till we don't know.

Where we're at and are not caring, How we yearn for peace and quiet, We've digested all the "war news" We can handle for a decade, Most of it more phony, And it all has got the money.

BLUE BLOODED PHILLY PUPS TO LIVE LIKE KINGS TODAY.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]
Philadelphia, Nov. 21.—Long lines of big unbusiness carrying elegantly clad society matrons drew up before one of the finest hotels of this city today. Uniformed lackeys silently opened the doors of the weather proof vehicles and the women sedately stepped to the carpeted entrance in turn escorted from the gusts of wind by a canopy. Each of the women carried in her arms a tiny bundle, wrapped in delicate, silken robes, such as a baby worn to wealth might own.

In the lobby, the women paused a moment, parted the robes, revealing the most blue-blooded of dogdom in Philadelphia, Airs and Terriers. Each was groomed to appear his very best; each carried a slight odor of perfume that had scented the bosom of its mistress and each was saucy and

HARVARD AND ILLINI WIN CHAMPIONSHIPS

CLOSE OF FOOTBALL SCHEDULE LEAVES CRIMSON AS NATIONAL CHAMPION

SEASON NEARLY OVER

Coach Zupke Deserves Credit For Bringing "Big Nine" Title to Illini—Minnesota Is Second. (By Strikes.)

The curtain for the football season was rung down Saturday with Harvard receiving the tokens as eastern champs and with Illinois the holder of an unopposed conference title in the "big nine". In general the scores went as expected although few looked for Harvard to give the Yale bulldog such a tough "kicking" as he did in the worst defeat the Blue has ever experienced and clearly indicates that Coach Haughton has the best football machine in the country. Captain Brickley closed perhaps the most brilliant gridiron career in Harvard's history when he entered the game a few minutes before it ended and booted a goal after a score, once again showing the power of his leg which downed the Blue last year.

In Saturday's battle Yale's defense was weak but largely it was Harvard's irresistible attack on line plunging and open field running that caused the weakness. The Harvard backfield outclassed the Yale men by so big a margin that there was no comparison. Eddie Mahan, half back for the Crimson put his name on the Harvard plate of honor and he was ably backed by Bradlee, Francke and Harvard players of All-American ability. Illinois annexed their first conference title by defeating Wisconsin 24 to 3 by outplaying the Badgers the majority of the game and by the sensational open field running of Clark and Pogue, Illini backs. Vast credit for this sweeping victory is due to Coach "Bob" Zupke, who has developed a wonderful team that no eleven in the conference in the west could stop, or it is doubtful of many an aggressive team could beat them.

Zupke is a Wisconsin university product and his football experience as a player is limited to "scrub" playing. As coach of a Chicago "prep" school, Zupke developed players who are starting on the larger eleven. His backfield were his students and Ghes, Dartmouth's famed quarter, is a graduate of his. The ranks of the teams in the conference would be Minnesota second, as Dr. Williams' eleven outgamed Chicago 13 to 7, with the Maroons and Wisconsin tied for third place. Purdue, who defeated Indiana 24 to 3 by outplaying the Hoosiers in a desperate battle, is deserving of fifth position; Iowa, sixth; Indiana, seventh; Ohio State, eighth; and Northwestern, in her customary place at the bottom. The Purple lost to Ohio State 27 to 0, finishing another disastrous season. Nebraska will have to be considered in rating western teams for the Cornhuskers trimmed the weakened Iowa eleven 15 to 7, which was a better score than either Minnesota or Chicago could trim them. Michigan, because of her intersectional schedule can not be compared justly with conference lines, but judging by the score the Michigan "Aggies" held the Wolverines to and how Nebraska trimmed the "Aggies" Coach Yost's squad is not above the "big nine" leaders. Indiana lost the state title to Purdue, 23 to 12.

In the only other game of importance, Dartmouth walloped Syracuse 40 to 0, and as Syracuse has defeated Michigan, the game was further indicative that eastern football is still above that of the western schools. The west has been improving fast in recent years but still lacks the polish and science that the game has perfected to in the east.

The next big game will be the Army-Navy struggle as the other colleges closed the season Saturday. The Army has played more consistent and winning ball this year and look good to trim the sailor boys. In the state Beloit's defeat of Lake Forest, 7 to 3, was the only important game as most of the colleges have completed their schedule. Lawrence clearly has the title staked and her record clean which she has maintained for years. A team has yet to cross Lawrence's home gridiron goal line.

Whitewater Normal won the state normal title, downing River Falls 13 to 0. In the high schools several teams are claiming the state honors but as usual it cannot be definitely settled. West Division, Milwaukee, buried Richland Center's prospects by a score of 26 to 2. L. M. Croese is claimer in the pie and it appears as if the upstarters are entitled to an edge among the highs.

State Scores. East Division 16, West Green Bay 1. North Division 5, South Division 6. West Div. 27, Richland Center 10. Marquette academy 29, Wayland 0. Beloit 18, Monroe 0. Carroll 30, Ripon 0. Waupun 47, Jefferson 0. Racine college 76, Waukesha high 0.

Only four teams outside of the Harvard and Princeton have been able to defeat Yale. Washington and Jefferson making the fifth. Yale has been playing the gridiron game since 1872, meeting all comers. Princeton has beaten Yale ten times and Harvard has won from the Blue seven times. West Point has won three Colgate once, and Washington and Jefferson.

WHAT'S HAPPENED? HIGHS TRIM MUTES IN WALKAWAY GAME

Blues Troupe Dummies 25 to 6 Saturday in Weird Contest—Rau Scores On More's Kickoff.

Well, look what has happened! What, you don't know? Why, the Janesville high school football eleven has won a game. They have established a reputation, by downing the Delavan Dummies for the first time in the history of the local institution. But the biggest thing they did was to win a game. Can you believe it?

The contest was a one-sided one. Janesville took the jump at the start, and completely outpointed and outclassed their opposition from the state school by piling up a 25 to 6 score during the contest. There was one feature of the game that will never be forgotten. It was Rau's touchdown on More's kickoff. This score came in the third quarter, and followed Janesville's second touchdown that made the score 13 to 0 in the blues' favor. More again kicked off to Lind, the Delavan fullback, who attempted to catch the ball on his own ten-yard line. He fumbled and in another attempt to recover, accidentally kicked the ball with his foot, and sent it back of his own goal line. Rau was running at top speed after the runner, but upon reaching the line made a hasty attack after the ball. He dove on it back of the goal line, which went for a touchdown. It was an unusual play on the gridiron, but a few times having been duplicated but a few times in the history of the game.

Cronin and Richards did the best work for Janesville Saturday, while Dearborn displayed some excellent football. For Delavan, there was no individual star, every player being of about the same calibre. Together the Dummies played scrappy, and at times were caught turning the ankles of local runners after they were downed. Cronin and Dearborn suffered from wrenched knees and ankles, mainly from these rough tactics. About four hundred rooters witnessed this number being about half of those attending the Beloit contest a week before. The game was called promptly at two-forty. Following is the contest by quarters.

First Quarter. Janesville kicked off to Delavan, who failed to gain on their own territory. The ball went to Janesville, and by steady rushes, were able to bring the ball to the opposing 20-yard line, from where Cronin skirted right end for the first touchdown. Janesville's interference was good at this point. More missed goal. Score: Janesville, 6; Delavan, 0.

Second Quarter. The lineup that faced each other Saturday was as follows: Delavan, Schanski, I. E.; Boger, I. T.; Hoeh, I. G.; Neustadt, I. C.; McKee, I. R.; Brandt, I. R.; Boner, I. B.; Capt. Third Quarter. The lineup that faced each other Saturday was as follows: Delavan, Schanski, I. E.; Boger, I. T.; Hoeh, I. G.; Neustadt, I. C.; McKee, I. R.; Brandt, I. R.; Boner, I. B.; Capt. Janesville, 6; Delavan, 0. Delavan put up a strong defense during the remainder of the quarter, and as the result neither side had the advantage. The blues' defense was invincible for a few moments and twice took the ball after holding the mutes for downs. The first quarter ended with Janesville leading, 6 to 0.

Second Quarter. The second quarter was a repetition of the latter half of the first. Janesville would rush the ball for downs several times, and then be held. Delavan carried the ball back to where Janesville started with it, and consequently, little interest, with only fair playing was exhibited in this period. Score at end of first half, Janesville, 6; Delavan, 0.

Third Quarter. Delavan kicked to Dearborn, who returned the ball thirty yards. Long runs by Cronin and Dearborn brought the ball to the Delavan ten-yard line. The Mutes were penalized five yards, which gave the locals but five yards and left to make. Dearborn was sent through left tackle for a touchdown. Score at end of third quarter, Janesville, 13; Delavan, 0.

More kicked off to Lind, who fumbled. Rau fell on the ball, and Delavan's goal line for a touchdown, after Lind had lost his balance and kicked the ball into Rau's hands. It was a fluke touchdown. More missed the try at goal. Score, Janesville, 19; Delavan, 0.

More kicked to Bonney who was downed in his tracks. Delavan made ten yards on line plays, and on a crosskick, Meredith hit right end and rushed the ball to the 5-yard line, from where Meredith scored on an end run. Hanson missed goal. Score, Janesville, 19; Delavan, 6. Delavan kicked to Badger, who returned the ball 20 yards, as the quarter ended. Score: Janesville, 19; Delavan, 6.

Fourth Quarter. It was Janesville's ball on their own 35-yard line. Cronin and Dearborn on long runs carried the ball to their opponent's ten-yard mark. Taylor skirted right end for a touchdown. He kicked off to Richards. Dearborn missed goal. Score, Janesville, 25; Delavan, 6. A few more plays, in which neither team had the advantage, closed the game, with Janesville victors for the first time this fall. Curtis may arrange a game for Turkey Day. If he does, the high school will play their last game of the season Saturday.

HAS CARROLL WON THE STATE TITLE?

Waukesha School Trounced Ripon 30 to 0 Saturday—Dalton and Atwood Each Win a Letter.

Despite their defeat by Lawrence, 12 to 3 earlier in the season, the Carroll college football squad of Waukesha, are claiming the Wisconsin state secondary college championship, through their 30 to 0 victory over Ripon Saturday.

Lawrence's victory gives them the title, because they were not defeated already in the league, which comprise Freeport, Beloit, Janesville, Racine, Kenosha and La Grange, the college hopes to add several more high schools in southern Wisconsin and northern Illinois on the list, and make the league a big success on the platform during the next four months. Material at the local institution will be more or less inexperienced, although through the aid of Principal Sheafor's public speaking students, two strong teams may result.

Prize Fighters Trade Gloves for War Arms. [BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] London, November 23.—Somebody's complaint about the lack of patriotism among the pugilists, has brought out a spirited letter from a boxing editor, who says that were he to give a list of all the professional boxers who have joined the colors since the declaration of war he would have to fill several newspaper columns. He gives a few names of men who have changed the twenty-four foot ring for a less circumscribed arena. They are worth recording: "Dick Smith, our light-heavy-weight champion; Bandman Rice, challenger for that title; Bandman Blake, who may be said to have a really sound chance of annexing the middle-weight belt; Pat O'Keefe, the actual holder; Tom McCormick and Johnny Basham, both of whom have been promised chances of contesting for the welter-weight title; Petty Officer Curran, one of our leading heavy-weights; Seaman Hayes, the famous feather-weight, with a host of engagements; Symonds, of Plymouth, a practical certainty for fly-weight honors."

There are any number of o. b. magnates who are opposed to making peace with the Feds. They believe that the new leaguers will not start another season. But the Feds only laugh at this assertion and point to the fact that similar claims were made a year ago. They were originally given until last Decoration Day to close up shop. Their lease of life was extended until July Fourth. Finally the Feds fooled them all by going through the season and finishing up without even breathing hard. It would be foolish for organized baseball to make peace with the Feds unless such a pact would automatically put the Feds out of business—that is, have a general absorption party all around Peace would be of practically no avail if, after the Wards, Weeghman and Stifel were taken care of by organized baseball by buying National league clubs, a revamped Federal league rose from the ruins.

TURKS AND TURKEY.

There has been no problem that has attracted the attention of the diplomats of the civilized world for centuries as has the one all-absorbing topic of the Turks and their domination of the vast hordes of savage tribes. Their domination of Asia Minor, their control of Asiatic Asia as far as religion goes. True, the past hundred years has seen the curtailment of their power to a great extent but still they are a power to be feared and with them a power to be feared and with them a power to be feared.

The Christian Science Monitor, in a careful study of the situation, sums up Turkey and the Turks in the following graphic language:
"Even the most cursory glance backwards on the history of the last hundred years reveals how often and with what persistence the Turkish question has occupied the attention of diplomatists of all countries and been the cause of an inordinate number of disagreements. Indeed, it is safe to say that the great majority of the problems which have come up for settlement in Europe during the last hundred years, have been in some way connected with the gradual dismemberment of Turkey. The Turk, the most eastern gentleman of the west and the most western gentleman of the east, as he has been styled, has never really made himself at home in Europe. He has never had the appearance of being a native, but always the appearance of a sojourner, and as the fugitive from the Turkish empire, he has been the cause of the Galata bridge some two years ago on their way to Asia Minor, more than one observer recognized the significance of the Turk going home."

"It is hard to guess at the future, but if the Turkish empire as the world has known it for 500 years were at last to be dissolved, it would only be another definite proof that there is nothing abiding in the military state. Five hundred years before Bernhard wrote his 'Germany and the Next War,' Muhammad, the conqueror, was putting his doctrines vigorously into practice in southeastern Europe. The policy of the Turkish empire ever since has been directed by belief in the all-powerfulness of the sword."

"For centuries the Ottoman Turk, the great soldier, has ruled over many subject peoples which vastly outnumber him in his own land. He has done this with increasing difficulty and his work has been accompanied by increasing instances of failure, but he has accomplished what he has accomplished in whatever strength still remains in the teaching that the ultimate power in the government of peoples rests in force. In spite of the efforts made on many hands to rehabilitate this teaching, the blows which have been struck at it during the past decade have ever been aimed with greater force and ever with greater effect, until today those with the most enlightened views discredit it as a policy and have thrown it overboard as a political doctrine. The Turk, of course, may reform himself, may change his views, may even reconstruct his empire, but the old Turk of the Ottoman tradition with his long sword and his shrewd thrust has surely passed into the limbo of the discredited and the forgotten."

FAILS TO GROW.

The manner in which the democratic majority in the coming congress has shifted from twenty-three on the first counting to thirty-one, and now had dropped back to figures not to exceed twenty, with the seventeen demagogues from New York state, the disaffected districts to figure on, leaves the margin anything but satisfactory to the Wilson administration and their program of reform. President Wilson may act as though he felt certain his policies would take root and grow during the next two years. Secretary Bryan has expressed himself as confident of the ultimate success of the measures he advocates, but the fact remains that the democratic majority in the next congress is of such a narrow margin that it will need the closest kind of attention from the democratic leaders and constant nursing by the administration if it is to be maintained. In the same list can be counted to sudden drop of the ultra progressive membership of the lower house. This is more alarming to the democratic success two years from now than anything else. They expected diminished power in the way of votes but they did not anticipate the sudden drop of the progressive idea by the people inside two years. Like the "Know Nothings," the "Free Soilers," and the Populists, the progressive element are on the wane and have played their part in the political history of the country. Through their efforts they gave the control of the government to the democrats and by their means it is probable that the democrats will retire to oblivion in two years, leaving their marks in the way of tariff and other legislation on the statute books. It is all right to claim the vote of the people supported the administration, but do the figures show it?

That the people of Belgium are suffering intensely owing to the climatic conditions, to the ravages of the war, to the death and devastation that has swept over their fertile land, and that they need immediate aid from the world at large is admitted on all sides. No one country is better fitted to do this than the United States. It is up to the citizens of this great nation to stretch their hands across the seas filled with the produce of the land of plenty to preserve the lives of the needy and suffering. Let that hand be not niggardly. The need is great, the call is unusual and the money raised now is urgently needed.

This first taste of winter has given the general public a sample of what to expect in the near future when the days become shorter and the cold, darkness sweep over the country. While seated beside a warm, open fire or hovering in a steam-heated apartment, think of the thousands who have not those comforts and be prepared to meet the demands upon the purse, for the grasshopper who did not toil during the warm summer months and must now freeze unless given from the stores of the thrifty ants.

It looks as though that contest as to who is elected United States senator from Wisconsin is going to be long, drawn-out affair. The far flung hustling has a thousand majority to the good, but no one can tell if the tale that there are four thousand ballots in the Milwaukee county returns that have been unjustly thrown out is true, and if they should favor McGovern it would change the complexion of affairs considerably and doubtless take the question up to the United States senate to decide.

The Milwaukee Journal is making a great deal to do about the Home Rule and Taxpayers' League now that election is over. After having backed the losers in the political contests they seek to explain something, and no one really understands what they mean to do when they call attention to the men who represent the taxpayers of the state in their efforts to decrease taxes and bring back the government to the people, of the people and by the people.

It is only by a free and open discussion of the rest room problem that any concrete results can be obtained. The more discussion the better. The pros and cons of this question are worth careful thought and due deliberation. It is not a question to be settled in a minute, first as to location, and second as to arrangement of the building.

Now that the eastern and western football championships have been decided and Harvard has won in the east and Illinois in the west, it is to be expected that basketball will be the next sport to vie with bowling for public favor.

Thursday is Thanksgiving day. On this day the nation gives thanks for blessings of the year past. Pious crops, prospect of work for the thousands now idle should make this year's celebration one of genuine rejoicing.

News from the seat of war continues to be as scarce as hens' teeth. The public is fed with conflicting reports of the various nations until one does not know what to believe.

Free to the Public, time tables from all transportation lines in United States. Also descriptive literature of interest to travelers. The Gazette Travel Bureau will also furnish information on rates, etc., on the various transportation lines going to any particular point.

OUR National Opportunity LESSONS for AMERICA from the WAR

(By George H. Benedict.)
We are learning some interesting financial lessons from the war, and those of us who never paid much attention before to stock exchanges and international credits, are beginning to grow better informed. It is interesting to know, for example, that the war places upon us a national obligation not only to pay our debts abroad, but to buy in American securities held in Europe. Further than that, we are to be asked to lend great sums to Europe to finance the war, besides advancing money needed by our own railroads and other expanding commercial institutions. From a young, expanding, borrowing nation, it seems that we must be transformed by the war to a money saving, investing, and lending nation. Can we do it? Can we as individuals give up some of our care-free habits with money, and save more, in order that the nation may play its part? It is estimated that the amount of American debts falling due in Europe between the start of the war and

January 1 next to amount to $300,000,000. This is a big sum, but it will be taken care of by gold shipments already made, and by favoring balances of trade. In October alone the debt was reduced $95,000,000. After the new year sets in, Europe will begin piling up a debt with us, through great purchases of supplies, and this debt will not be offset by extravagant expenditures of American tourists in Europe.

This growing balance to our credit may be applied for the assimilation of American securities held abroad, to the value of $5,000,000,000. It is estimated that we will be called upon very soon after the stock exchanges open to buy back $500,000,000 of these securities. It will be done gradually, and without panic. Our national position will be that of a thriving, borrowing business man, who is obliged by circumstances to pay up his debts and hustle around for money to lend his neighbors at good interest. We cannot help but become stronger and sounder as a result.

MARTY'S FACTORIES DECLARED SANITARY

Brodhead Cheese Maker Accused By State Inspector Vindicates Him- self of Charges.

According to the decision of the court in Monroe, the decision of Jacob Marty, well known cheese-maker of Brodhead, who owns factories in Green and Rock counties, his two factories in Green county are conducted in a sanitary manner, as required by the state laws.

Mr. Aderhold, the assistant dairy and food commissioner, and Mr. Wellman, one of the principal inspectors of factories, early last August commenced a course of inspection of cheese factories and especially of those operated by Mr. Marty, who was arrested under the statute for conducting two cheese factories in Green county and one butter factory in Rock county, on the charge that milk was being manufactured for food in factories where the premises and utensils were kept in an unsanitary condition.

The Rock county case was tried some time ago, in the municipal court here. E. D. McGowan appearing for the defendant, and a verdict was returned by the jury for the defendant, thus vindicating Mr. Marty of the charge made in that case.

The two Green county cases were tried during the last week at Monroe, and the court has just rendered its decision, finding Mr. Marty "Not Guilty," thus vindicating him of all charges made.

The Green county cases were thoroughly tried, the assistant dairy and food commissioner and inspector being present and the case being tried by Mr. J. T. Dittmar, the assistant attorney general, and W. H. McGrath, district attorney for Green county.

Mr. Marty was defended by John Sherron of Monroe and E. D. McGowan of Jansville, and the result and the victory of Mr. Marty demonstrates that his factories were conducted in an extremely sanitary condition, and that he had complied with the requirements of the law in every respect.

These decisions are of great importance, not only to Mr. Marty but to the proprietors of one hundred and eighty-nine other cheese factories in Rock and Green counties, where the finest quality of brick, Swiss and Limburger cheese is made.

Both escaped and it was not until Petravich happened to run across the alleged thief at Superior, that the authorities could gain trace of the men wanted. Redis alias Miller was arrested and was held by the Superior police until the arrival of the La Fayette sheriff, who took both into custody as Petravich was wanted as a witness in the action.

HIT CAR STANDING BY SIDE OF CURB

Frank King, injured when Auto Owned by George Meyer Ran into Machine Standing on Street.

Frank King, residing on North Main street, received severe and painful injuries when thrown from a small touring car owned by George Meyer, a farmer residing on route seven, when the auto crashed into the side of a larger touring car owned by William Shoemaker, on South Main street between eleven and twelve o'clock Saturday night.

George Meyer, who was driving, and Roy Wiegton, the other occupant of the auto, escaped without hurts, receiving only a bad fright, and a severe shaking-up.

The car owned by Shoemaker was standing with lights lit and motor off, in front of the John Dower residence, 407 South Main street, and there was no one in the machine at the time of the accident. The car driven by Meyer for some reason backed into the side of the stationary auto, striking a glancing blow. King was thrown to the brick pavement by the force of the collision and Wiegton, it is alleged, went over the hood of the car and landed on the roof.

It was reported King sustained a badly cut and bruised face, his nose being nearly broken, eyes injured and cuts on the cheek. One of his thumbs was fractured. The fenders and running board of the Shoemaker car were shielded into Shoemaker's auto to fall safely on the cushions. Meyer was pinned in the steering wheel but escaped injury.

CHIEF CHAMPION GIVES WARNING LECTURE TO DELIVERY CAR DRIVERS

Two young men, who are employed by local grocers, were present at the lecture given this morning and given final warning that if tail lights were not provided on the cars and that the speed laws were rigidly obeyed, their arrests would follow.

The lecture was given daily because of reckless driving by these boys who labor under the impression that they are some "Barney" Oldfield or De Palma trying to break records on the highway. The boys were given a warning to make a fancy turn, ran into the Singer Sewing machine agent's store on the Corn Exchange and nearly smashed the front window.

A little less speed and more care could be appreciated by the Jansville citizens," remarked the chief as he closed the interview with one of the drivers.

EDWARD RATHERAM IS DEAD AT EIGHTY-SIX

Pioneer Resident of City Succumbs Sunday Morning After Long Ill-

Edward Ratheram, one of Jansville's oldest and most respected citizens, died at his home, 170 Lincoln street, Sunday morning, at the age of eighty-six years. This announcement does not come as a surprise to his many friends and intimate acquaintances, for his life has been despaired of for several weeks.

He was born in England, June 24, 1828, and came to this country at the age of twelve, locating first at Allentown, Pennsylvania. In the early forties he removed to Jansville, where he has resided until the time of his death.

On May 26, 1864, Mr. Ratheram was married in marriage with Miss Sarah V. Blay, whose death occurred April 27, 1914. The children of this marriage are Mrs. F. E. Gunn, Mrs. R. W. Gunn, and Mrs. S. W. Harvey of Chicago.

In early life Mr. Ratheram learned the trade of a mason, and was actively engaged as a contractor until a few years before his death. Commencing with the construction of the old Hyatt House, during his long and busy career as a contractor and builder, Mr. Ratheram has erected many of the principal buildings in this city.

Mr. Ratheram was a quiet, modest, unassuming man, and his loyalty never questioned. As a mark of respect to his memory, the following resolution adopted November 13, 1914, seems fitting and proper to include in this brief sketch of his life:

The Board of Supervisors for Rock County, in the resolution of the Court House, erected by Mr. Ratheram, and which stands as a monument to his honesty and integrity, send kindly greetings and best wishes to his family and extend their heartfelt sympathies to them in Mr. Ratheram's sickness.

"We also wish to express our sincere thanks to Mr. Ratheram for his nearly thirty years of faithful service as a member of the County Board of Supervisors for Rock County."

The funeral services will be held at his late residence, No. 170 Lincoln street, on Tuesday afternoon at 2:00 p. m., and will be private.

FIRST OF WOMAN'S CLUB PROGRAMS GIVEN SATURDAY

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Whitewater, Nov. 23.—The first of a series of three concerts given under the auspices of the Federation of Woman's Clubs was enjoyed by an audience which made up in appreciation what it lacked in numbers. The various attractions of Saturday evening, closing a week of unusual activity, and the fact that the sale of tickets had not been pushed sufficiently in all directions, kept some people away from this concert which was in charge of Dr. Chester W. Parikh, a pianist whose ability is leading him into the first ranks of musical circles in this city. He has a masterly interpretation of classical music and played the "Fantasia Impromptu" by Chopin with exceptional skill. Miss Nellie Bentley, violinist, came from her home in Edgerton to be one of the evening's artists. Her numbers were warmly applauded, especially the familiar and beautiful "Serenade" and the Schubert-Remy "Serenade." All lovers of the violin recognize Miss Bentley's ability to make the violin give forth its musical voice. Miss Edith Wheeler, an accompanist, is often in demand by Whitewater's talent. Her gracious response is appreciated by all who are glad to listen when she plays, whether it be the piano, the pipe-organ or the third soloist was Frederick Wergin of Milwaukee, who was accompanied by his wife. They are friends and guests of Dr. and Mrs. Parikh and it is not often that Whitewater is given the treat of listening to such a fine tenor voice. Mr. Wergin sings in the Lutheran church in Milwaukee. He is now under the instruction of a Chicago teacher. He has studied under Carlsberg in Milwaukee, and Oscar Sander in New York city. He was very generous in response to requests and his repertoire of songs was unusually pleasing. It is hoped he may be heard again by the music-lovers of Whitewater. Mrs. Wergin is a fine pianist. The audience wished she and Miss Edith Wheeler might have rendered solos as well as accompaniments. The next concert of the series will be anticipated with much pleasure.

English prejudice against Corn. Maize has long been grown in England as a forage crop for cattle and horses—but this is not sugar corn—and the average Britisher has not yet overcome his prejudice against eating horse feed. Yet English cattle and English horses have an enviable reputation in parts of the world outside of England, and it may be that the Englishman will take a leaf out of his horse book.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

THOUSANDS HAVE DISCOVERED DR. EDWARDS' OLIVE TABLETS ARE A HARMLESS SUBSTITUTE.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. They are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. His efforts to banish it brought out these little olive-colored tablets.

These pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids.

It is best not to take calomel, but to let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Most headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "loggy" and "heavy." Note how they "clear" a clouded brain and how they "perk up" the spirits. At 10c and 25c per box. All druggists. The Olive Tablet Company, Columbus, O.

"I Couldn't Live Without Ye, Samson. I Just Couldn't Do Hit."

he seemed weaponless, but Samson knew that concealed beneath the hickory shirt was a holster, worn mountain fashion.

"What air ye a-reachin' atter, Tam'rack?" he inquired, his lips twisting in amusement.

"That's my business."

"Well, git hit out—or git out yerself, afore I throws ye often the cliff."

Sally showed no symptoms of alarm. Her confidence in her hero was absolute. The boy lifted his hand, and pointed off down the path. Slowly and with incoherent muttering, Spicer took himself away. Then only did Sally rise. She came over, and laid a hand on Samson's shoulder. In her blue eyes, the tears were welling.

"Samson," she whispered, "ef they're atter ye, come ter my house. I kin hide ye out. Why didn't ye tell me Jesse Jurvey'd done 'been shot?"

"Hit tain't nothin' ter fret about, Sally," he assured her. He spoke awkwardly, for he had been trained to regard emotion as unmanly. "That hain't no danger."

She gazed searchingly into his eyes, and then, with a short sob, threw her arms around him, and buried her face on his shoulder.

"Ef anything happens ter ye, Samson," she said, brokenly, "hit'll jest kill me. I couldn't live withouten ye, Samson. I jest couldn't do hit!"

The boy took her in his arms, and pressed her close. His eyes were gazing off over her bent head, and his lips twitched. He drew his features into a scowl, because that was the only expression with which he could safeguard his feelings. His voice was husky.

"I reckon, Sally," he said, "I couldn't live withouten ye, neither."

The party of men who had started at morning from Jesse Purdy's store had spent a hard day. The roads followed creek-beds, crossing and recrossing waterways in a fashion that gave the bloodhounds a hundred baffling difficulties. Often, their noses lost the trail, which had at first been so surely taken. Often, they drooled and whined, and halted in perplexity, but each time they came to a point where, at the end, one of them again raised his muzzle skyward, and gave voice.

Toward evening, they were working up Misery along a course less broken. The party halted for a moment's rest, and, as the bottle was passed, the man from Lexington, who had brought the dogs and stayed to conduct the chase, put a question:

"What do you call this creek?"

"Hit's Misery."

"Does anybody live on Misery that er—that you might suspect?"

The Hollmans laughed.

"This creek is settled with Souths thicker'n hops."

The Lexington man looked up. He knew what the name of South meant to a Hollman.

"Is there any special South, who might have a particular grudge?"

"The Souths don't need no parti'lar grudge, but that's young Samson South. He's a wildcat."

"He lives this way?"

"These dogs air a-makin' a bee-line fer his house." Jim Hollman was speaking. Then he added: "I've done been told that Samson denies doin' the shootin', an' claims he kin prove an alibi."

The Lexington man lighted his pipe, and poured a drink of red whiskey into a flask cup.

"He'd be apt to say that," he commented. "These dogs haven't any prejudice in the matter. I'll stake my life on their telling the truth."

An hour later, the group halted again. The master of hounds mopped his forehead.

"Are we still going toward Samson South's house?" he inquired.

"We're about a quarter from hit now, an' we hain't never varied from the straight road."

"Will they be apt to give us trouble?"

Jim Hollman smiled.

"I hain't never heered of no South submittin' ter arrest by a Hollman."

The trailers examined their firearms, and loosened their holster-flaps. The dogs went forward at a trot.

CHAPTER V.

From time to time that day, neighbors had ridden up to Spicer South's stile, and drawn rein for gossip. These men brought bulletins as to the progress of the hounds, and near sundown, as a postscript to their information, a volley of gunshot signals sounded from a mountain top. No word was spoken, but in common accord the kinsmen rose from their chairs, and drifted toward their leading rifles.

"They're a-comin' hyar," said the head of the house, curtly. "Samson ought ter be home. What's Tam'rack?"

No one had noticed his absence until that moment, nor was he to be found. A few minutes later, Samson's figure swung into sight, and his uncle met him at the fence.

"Samson, I've done asked ye all the questions I'm a-goin' ter ask ye," he said, "but them dawgs is makin' fer this house. They've jest been sighted a mile below."

Samson nodded.

"Now"—Spicer South's face hardened—"I owns down thar ter the road. No man kin cross that fence withouten I choose ter give him leave. Ef ye wants ter go indoors an' stay thar, ye kin do hit—an' no dawg nor no man hain't a-goin' ter ask ye no questions. But, ef ye sees fit ter face hit out, I'd love ter prove ter these hyar men that as Souths don't break our word. We done agreed ter this truce. I'd like ter invite 'em in, an' let them damn dawgs sniff round the feet of every man in my house—an' then, when they're plumb testotally damn satisfied, I'd like ter tell 'em all ter go ter hell. That's the way I feels, but I'm a-goin' ter do jest what ye says."

Lescott did not overhear the conversation in full, but he saw the old man's face work with suppressed passion, and he caught Samson's louder reply.

"When them folks gets hyar, Uncle Spicer, I'm a-goin' ter be a-settin' right out thar in front. I'm plumb willin' ter invite 'em in." Then, the two men turned toward the house.

Already the other clansmen had disappeared noiselessly through the door or around the angles of the walls.

Fifteen minutes later, Lescott, standing at the fence, saw a strange cavalcade round the bend of the road. Several, travel-stained men were leading mules, and holding two tawny and impatient dogs in leash. In their number, the artist recognized his host of two nights ago.

They halted at a distance, and in their faces the artist read dismay, for, while the dogs were yelping contentedly and tugging at their cords, young Samson South—who should, by their prejudiced convictions, be hiding out in some secret stronghold—sat at the top step of the stile, smoking his pipe, and regarded them with a lack-luster absence of interest. Such a calm reception was uncanny. After a whispered conference, the Lexington man came forward alone. Old Spicer South had been looking on from the door, and was now strolling out to meet the envoy, unarmed.

And the envoy, as he came, held his hands unnecessarily far away from his sides, and walked with an ostentatious show of peace.

"Evenin', stranger," hailed the old man. "Come right in."

"Mr. South," began the dog-owner, with some embarrassment, "I have been employed to furnish a pair of bloodhounds to the family of Jesse Purvy, who has been shot."

"I heard tell that Purvy was shot," said the head of the Souths in an affable tone, which betrayed no deeper note of interest than neighborhood gossip might have elicited.

"I have no personal interest in the matter," went on the stranger, hastily, as one bent on making his attitude actively—"Hit'll mean that they're a-bustin' the truce—an' they won't never go out ag'in. But you air safe in hyar. I gives yer my hand on thet. Ye're welcome, an' yore dawgs is welcome. I hain't got nothin' 'galst dawgs that comes on four legs, but I shore bars the two-legged kind."

There was an murmur of astonishment from the road. Disregarding it, Spicer South turned his face toward the house.

"You boys kin come out," he shouted, "an' leave yore guns inside."

The leashes were slipped from the dogs. They leaped forward, and made directly for Samson, who sat as unmoving as a lifeless image on the top step of the stile. There was a half-moment of terrific suspense, then the beasts clambered by the seated figure, passing on each side and circled aimlessly about the yard—their quest unended. They sniffed indifferently about the trouser legs of the men who sauntered indolently out of the door. They trotted into the house and out again, and mingled with the mongrel home pack that snarled and growled hostility for this invasion. Then, they came once more to the stile. As they climbed out, Samson South reached up and stroked a tawny head, and the bloodhound paused a moment to wag its tail in friendship, before it jumped down to the road, and trotted gingerly onward.

"I'm obliged to you, sir," said the man from the Bluegrass, with a voice of immense relief.

The moment of suspense seemed past, and, in the relief of the averted clash, the master of hounds forgot that his dogs stood branded as false trailers. But when he rejoined the group in the road he found himself looking into early visages, and the features of Jim Hollman in particular were black in their scowl of smoldering wrath.

"Why didn't ye ax him," growled the kinsman of the man who had been shot, "what the other feller's at?"

"What other fellow?" echoed the Lexington man.

Jim Hollman's voice rose truculently, and his words drifted, as he meant them to, across to the ears of the clansmen who stood in the yard of Spicer South.

clear, "except to supply the dogs and manage them. I do not in any way direct their course; I merely follow."

"Ye can't hardly to-see a dawg," Old Spicer sagely nodded his head as he made the remark. "A dawg jest natch'ly follers his own nose."

"Exactly—and they have followed their noses here." The Lexington man found the embarrassment of his position growing as the colloquy proceeded.

"I want to ask you whether, if these dogs want to cross your fence, I have your permission to let them?"

The master of the house crossed the stile, the low sun shining on his shock of gray hair, and stood before the man-hunter. He spoke so that his voice carried to the waiting group in the road.

"Ye're plumb welcome ter turn them dawgs loose, an' let 'em ramble, stranger. Nobody hain't a-goin' ter hurt 'em. I sees some fellers out thar with ye that mustn't cross my fence. Ef they does"—the voice rang men-ance, if I die you will be safe from want."

"Yes," was the reply, "but what if you don't die?"

"Mother," said Bobby after a full week of obedience, "have I been a good boy lately?"

"Yes, dear," replied his mother, "a very good boy."

"And do you trust me?" he continued.

"Why of course, mother trusts her little boy!" she answered.

But the chastened child was not pacified. "I mean really, really trust me, you know," he explained.

"Yes, I really, really trust you," nodded his mother. "Why do you ask?"

"Just because," said Bobby, diving his hands into his pockets and looking her in the face, "if you trust me like you say you do, why do you go on hiding the jam?"

SUPERB SCENE IN "ONE GIRL IN A MILLION," AT MYERS' THEATRE, MATINEE AND EVENING, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 25.

AT MYERS' THEATRE.

The musical comedy hit, "One Girl in a Million," which has just completed a successful run in the La Salle Opera House, Chicago, will be presented at the Myers Theatre next Wednesday afternoon and evening, Nov. 25. This happy fun show with its abundance of jolly tunes and funny situations, has a record of 150 performances in the La Salle and arrangements for its continuation were prevented through contracts with other attractions which could not be broken. "One Girl in a Million" comes with the original cast, headed by the clever comedian and singer, Felix Adler, a magnetic chap who is a whole show in himself. One of the hit song numbers which Mr. Adler offers is called:

"Will You Love Me When I Am Bald?" The impersonations and descriptive ideas infused during rendition are remarkable. Mr. Adler frequently holding the stage for twenty minutes. The lyrics of "Baldy" run as follows: Will you love me when my face is full of wrinkles? When I come and pair of specs I'll have to get. When my beard is gray like poor old

Rip Van Winkle's? Will you call me baby doll and angel pet? Will you love me when I'm in my second childhood? When I have to use a trumpet in my ear? Will you stick when I'm rheumatic? When I'm foolish in my attic? Will you love me when I'm bald? Rebecca dear?

ANNETTE KELLERMAN.

The attraction at Myers Theatre for two days beginning tonight will be Annette Kellerman in a 7-reel feature motion picture play entitled "Neptune's Daughter." Miss Kellerman, who heretofore has confined her activities to vaudeville and musical productions, recently spent three months on the island of Bermuda enacting the heroine in a picture play by Captain Leslie T. Peacock. This play was written especially to exploit Miss Kellerman, and gives her ample scope to show her genius as an aquatic marvel, but also to display her ability as an actress. The services of one thousand actors were required under the stage direction of Mr. Herbert Brennen.

vacation from nursing, which she will spend in Chicago. Miss Arnold was absent from school the first of the week on account of the death of her uncle, in Delavan.

MUNICIPAL RULE BY COMMISSION FAVORED

City Manager of Dayton, Ohio Shows Success of Business Like City Government.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Baltimore, Nov. 22.—"The Commission-Manager Plan of Government in the light of Experience" was discussed by Henry M. Waite, city manager of Dayton, O., at Friday's session of the National Municipal League. He declared this new form of city government was a success, and in answer to his own question as to whether it could be a permanent success, he said:

"It's permanency depends upon intelligent citizenship, and their continued determination to keep partisan politics out of municipal affairs."

"The Dayton plan of five commissioners at large and non-partisan had resulted in the election of sound business men, he said. They selected the manager, and the latter selected the directors of the five departments—Law, Finance, Welfare, Service—Safety."

"I cannot tell you the political faith of the Commissioners or the directors," he said. "They are selected for their ability."

"In our Finance Department," he continued, "our new accounting system is the same as would be found in any large business. Our budget is scientific. Every month the head of each department receives a complete financial statement which shows the original allowance, expenditures and balance in each account. We keep our expenditures inside our allowances."

"In August, we found that our estimated revenues were too high. With our system of accounting and budget, we were enabled, in two days, to reduce expenditures $45,000, and reorganize all work accordingly."

He told how police women were aiding in the handling of women derelicts and domestic troubles; how the fire department was continually making house to house inspections to reduce the fire hazard; how duplication of effort had been saved by combining all philanthropic and city nursing into the Welfare Department; how citizens had "turned four hundred dirty spots into four hundred gardens; and numerous other steps in city improvements."

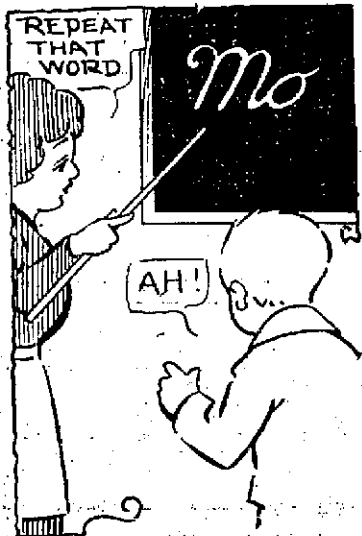

"These new forms of municipal government have many ups and downs ahead of them," he said. "Our duty is to educate the people to appreciate these new forms of government we have called into being."

"Publicity must be given to the results by the new governments. We must obtain an efficient citizenship. Interest should be maintained through the schools. We need fewer elections, longer terms, and thereby greater efficiency."

RAH! RAH! RAH! BOYS FAIL TO SECURE STUDY AVERAGE

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE) Madison, Wis., Nov. 22.—Statistics show that students in the college of letters and science at the state university are getting lower grades than in previous years, the percentage conditions and failures having steadily increased in the last seven years. Either the standard of work has been raised or else students do not apply themselves as well.

The Spirit of

was instilled into the soul of this great nation by our forefathers—293 years ago. The primitive fields and forests were the only source of supply for their festivities.

Today the true Spirit of Thanksgiving still prevails—but the great hand-of-progress has drawn a veil of modernism over the day, and we often overlook the simple touches of nature, so harmonious with the occasion.

Could you give more pleasure to all assembled than by an artistic arrangement of seasonable flowers for the Thanksgiving Dinner Table.

You can also arrange through us for the delivery of a gift of flowers to the one who is not able to join the festivities.

AMERICAN LEGATION BUSY AT STOCKHOLM

American Minister and Corp of Assistants Have manifold Duties to Perform for Warring Nations.

(Correspondence of The A. P.) Stockholm, Nov. 22.—With all of Germany's and Austria's diplomatic affairs centering in the American Legation here, Minister Morris, his assistants and an extra corps of four clerks are kept more than comfortably busy. A recent agreement between the warring nations to exchange lists of prisoners has made the legation a busy place. It appears likely that within a few days the formal exchange of consular representatives, who up to now have been held as prisoners of war in Russia and Germany will be effected. German and 120,000 Austrian non-combatants are in Russia. Thousands of letters of inquiries about these have been handled by the legation to date. Germany is permitting Russian subjects, women and children and men of non-military age, to return to their country. These are arriving in Stockholm daily by the score. Their care devolves upon a committee of Americans. Twenty-seven American nurses, most of them young women, eight surgeons, and three tons of medical supplies recently passed through to Russia. They were sent by steamer to Rangoon and from there by rail to Petrograd. Russia is reported to be very short of medical supplies and cotton cloth for bandages, hence the unusual supply carried by the American committee.

A new route, practically all rail, for English and Russian travelers, has been developed by the presence of German warcraft in the Baltic. The Finnish railroad up the Eastern Coast of the Gulf of Bothnia to Torshavn, and the Swedish line down the Western side to Stockholm, ordinarily chiefly devoted to freight traffic, have become by force of circumstances fairly passenger carriers. Neither English nor Russians will take the risk of falling into the hands of the Germans by using the boat and rail route which is being followed by

NEW COACHING SYSTEM FOR PRINCETON NEXT YEAR

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

New York, Nov. 23.—There is every reason to believe that Princeton will next year adopt the permanent football coach idea, which has been so eminently successful at Harvard under Haughton, and in the majority of the colleges throughout the Middle West.

Princeton, with some of the best all-around material that Nassau has had to work on, has been literally felled by a series of injuries. There was Old Man Opportunity fairly begging to be taken into the Tiger fold, but the old plan of a new coach every year or two, and these without full authority to carry out their programs, led in the poor showing during the 1914 season.

Of course, Percy Haughton is a well known name in Princeton. He is as good as Yost or Stagg ever was. But he couldn't have done what he has accomplished in a year, nor in two years. And he had to have complete charge in his department. Yale has started right, it seems, employing Hinkley, who probably will be given carte blanche as long as he wants the job of putting the winning wallop, smash and punch into Yale's gridiron warriors.

AVALON

Avalon, Nov. 20.—Helen Engsbud Doubleday, infant child of Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Doubleday, passed away Tuesday morning, November 17, after an illness of but a few days. She was born December 29, 1912 and was a sweet loving little child, and had won her way into the hearts of those in her home and will be sadly missed, besides the parents she leaves two sisters, and two brothers, to mourn their loss. The funeral was held Wednesday at 2 p. m. at the house, Rev. O'Neill of Emerald Grove officiating. The bearers were four little cousins of the deceased, Everett and Wesley, Harold and Raymond Hanson. Interment was in the Emerald Grove cemetery.

Mrs. Williams and daughter, Mrs. Wm. Dean and Mrs. C. E. Smith of Beloit, spent Tuesday at the J. T. Boynton home.

Mrs. Jennie Conly will take a week

Working On Pleasant Street Sewer

Construction work was completed on the Pleasant street cement storm sewer yesterday when the gigantic combination manhole and catch basin was closed at Chatham street and connections made with the street curbing and gutter. The distance from the starting point at the intersection of Washington and Pleasant street to the turning point on Chatham street is a fraction over 900 feet and up to the manhole at the head of the sewer, is of thirty inch cement piping. From this point the sewer will be thirty six inches and next year will be continued to up Bluff street to Pine.

The cut at Chatham street is twelve feet from the street level which will be increased up Chatham street until the head of thoroughfare where the natural slope of the street will allow the sewer to be placed closed to the street surface. An open ditch will be dug on Pine street to drain the low spots here into the sewer. There are three combination manholes along the route, to catch overflow debris and to prevent any chance of the sewer clogging.

The cement sewer has been adopted by the city commission, as being the cheapest and best method of surface drainage, being permanent and satisfactory in results. In the spring, the Oakland avenue sewer will be extended north to Jackson street at least and from the present end on Main street to the river. Some form of a sewer is being planned to be constructed on Fifth avenue to be built under the railway embankment to the river.

MAKES CLAIM IN COURT THAT HE WAS STRUCK BY ASSAILANT ON TRACK

When John Metzinger was arraigned in the municipal court this morning on the charge of intoxication, he declared that he was not guilty and claimed to have been knocked down by an unknown person while walking alone on the railroad tracks above Franklin street, late Saturday night. According to Metzinger the effects of the blow, which rendered him unconscious, made him appear to be under the influence of liquor, causing his arrest at the Northwestern passenger station. What motive caused the attack the police were unable to fathom, for the man had no money on his person to make robbery the object of the attack. A bad bump on the top of the skull strengthened the man's story, and he was released.

John Connors plead not guilty, with a gusto, to the charge of drunkenness, and his trial was set for Friday morning.

CATTLE PLAGUE NOW PUT UNDER CONTROL

Federal Authorities Claim Lifting of Quarantine Against Canada Is Encouraging Sign.

Washington, Nov. 23.—The lifting of the quarantine against Canada because of the foot and mouth disease is regarded by officials of the department of agriculture as encouraging evidence that they are "on the outside of the disease." "This means," says a statement today by the department, "that there are grounds for the belief that quarantine already declared has been sufficient to stop the movement of infected cattle, and that the disease can now be held within the limit of the areas already quarantined."

LOCAL HIBERNIANS RECEIVE BIG CLASS

A. O. H. Initiates Seventeen and Ladies' Auxiliary Thirty-two in Gathering Sunday.

The largest class ever initiated by the local A. O. H. lodge was received into the order Sunday, when sixteen men and thirty-two women became members of the Ladies' Auxiliary. The exercises were held at the Eagles' and Spanish War Veterans' hall, both of which were crowded to capacity.

The ladies' degree team from Milwaukee, which put on the ritual work, deserves great praise for its splendid showing. The following Milwaukee ladies were present: Mrs. Nels Peterson, Miss S. Pope, Miss F. Murphy, Miss M. Brown and Miss N. Little.

A telegram was read from State President A. Callan expressing his regrets that he was unable to attend the exercises owing to serious illness in his family. The Rev. Dean E. E. Reilly, state chaplain, made a splendid address and Mrs. J. Heffernan and Miss Gertrude McGinley favored the gathering with several delightful musical selections. Refreshments were served and a pleasant social time followed the initiatory work.
